Field Dog Expo to be held at the Historic English Setter Club in Medford to benefit the New Jersey Quail Project

Waretown, NJ January 16, 2009 - The New Jersey Quail Project, a conservation project associated with the New Jersey Outdoor Alliance and the English Setter Club of America will be holding their First Annual Field Dog Expo on June 6, 2009 on the spectacular grounds of the historic English Setter Club of America in Medford, NJ.

This event is designed for the amateur dog handler. On this day you should bring out your pointing, flushing or retrieving breed for some exercise and free training seminars by professional dog trainers, handlers and field trial judges.

Training seminars will be conducted throughout the day. Information booths, kennel operators, dog supply dealers and others of interest to dog owners will be on hand to answer questions and provide information. Food and beverages will be available on site and even a few horses for those with an equine interest in the horse's role in field trial events.

The day will have a focus on the amateur field dog handler and Pro Dog trainers will be available to help with training tips and sharpening your dog's skills.

A small donation to the New Jersey Quail Project will be requested but not required to spend a day with the pros. Easily accessible from Highway Route 70, the English Setter Club is located on Medford-Mt. Holly Road (Route 541).

Bring your family, bring your buddies and most importantly – bring your favorite dog and enjoy the day among fellow field dog enthusiasts from around the state. Mark your calendar and make plans to come out for a great time and learning experience.

The day's festivities will commence at 8:00 am. The rain date is Sunday, June 7, 2009.

All proceeds go to the New Jersey Quail Project to support restoration and enhancement of bobwhite quail habitat throughout New Jersey in an effort to rebuild New Jersey's wild bobwhite quail populations.

Coming from a distance? Limited space for RVs and camping available. Advance reservation highly recommended.
